Small Ship Adventures

The best gifts come in small packages - so true with small ship. More intimate ports of call where the big ships can't go. And with fewer than 300 guests, you can be guaranteed plenty of deck space and great customer service.

Western Australia

Beautiful sunsets, wide open beaches, calm turquoise waters and the world's largest fringing reef. Can't go wrong here.

Antarctica

To land in this region ships can't go over 200 guests, and only 100 are allowed to disembark at any one time.

New Zealand

New Zealand is similar in size to Japan (126 million) and the U.K. (64 million), but with a much smaller population (4.5 million).

Sea of Cortez

The aquarium of the world without the crowds.

Barge Hotels

Luxury hotel and culinary experience on a barge with no more than 22 other guests.

Take a Hike

Glamping active vacations combine hiking exploring some of the most scenic spots in the world while staying in comfortable lodges.

Go Private

Whether a tailor-made trip or a private tour, you can design them just the way you want and with people you want to be with.

Iceland

Iceland is a "hot" destination, but most people stay near Reykjavik. Explore the north, east or western regions - you won't be disappointed.

Tasmania

Clean, green and abundant wildlife. A pure gem.

River Cruises

River cruises take you through the heart of a country, to iconic cities and quaint towns. No more than 188 guests on board means small groups exploring the ports.

Patagonia

Chile's Torres del Paine National Park and coastal fjords offer some of the most pristine and scenic sites in all of South America.

Vancouver Island

This is the Tofino area on the west coast of the island. Words can't describe this scene any better!

Galapagos

Ships have between 10-100 guests and don't visit the same place twice in a 15 day period. A max of 16 people are allowed in any group landing. A perfect bucket list trip.

Spitsbergen

This region has approximately 4000 polar bears, more than twice the number of residents.

Marquesas Islands

A four hour flight from Tahiti, the Marquesas are like Hawaii was 100 years ago.

Croatia

Full of enchanting, romantic and quaint towns and ports. Go off season to avoid the crowds.

Cook Islands

Renowned for spectacular snorkeling and scuba diving, these islands are the Pacific's best kept secret.

Alaska

Navigate Alaska's waterways, inlets and fjords on a small ship and guaranteed you'll be presented with experiences of a lifetime.

The Azores

Europe's hidden gem only 4 hours from Boston.... lush and beautiful like Hawaii but without all the tourists.

Madagascar

Tourists don't gather in large numbers here, but sea turtles, humpback whales and lemurs do!
